The International Water Association and the Leibniz Institute of Freshwater Ecology and Inland Fisheries organize this IWA Specialists Conference in September, 2015. The conference continues the series of the past DIPCON conferences held in China in 2013 and New Zealand 2011. This time, the conference theme will focus on the different perspectives of research on diffuse pollution of aquatic systems, aiming the diffusing of knowledge throughout scientific and administrative borders. Berlin's lively present and rich past combine in a melting pot of cultural diversity. Berlin represents the youth, innovative business ideas and shelters an extraordinary research landscape. Its friendliness and relaxed atmosphere promises a unique experience for all visitors.

Call for abstracts : Authors are requested to electronically submit an extended abstract according to IWA format before 16th March 2015.
